PTL appoints Sam Burden as Client Director

PTL, the leading independent trustee and governance services provider, part of ZEDRA since last January, has appointed Sam Burden as a Client Director in its Birmingham office.

Richard Butcher, Managing Director of PTL, commented: “Sam is a highly experienced pensions professional and has worked with a wide range of sponsors and trustees across both DB and DC arrangements in many sectors. His in-depth understanding of pension issues, particularly with DC arrangements, will be of huge benefit to the schemes we represent.”

Burden added: “I was attracted to PTL by the calibre of the people and their team approach to trusteeship and governance. I am very much looking forward to applying my knowledge and experience to help our clients meet the strategic objectives of their schemes.”

Sam Burden is an Associate of the Pensions Management Institute and has spent 25 years’ in the pensions industry. Before joining PTL, he held senior roles at WTW and KPMG.

Beyond his pensions experience, Sam is a former Birmingham City Councillor where he chaired the audit committee, a current charity trustee, and he stood for Parliament in 2010.
